Challenge

Al Majmoua (The Lebanese Association For Development) is an independent non-profit Lebanese microfinance institution that offers micro-entrepreneurs, particularly women, group and individual loans, and free non-financial services through its network of 22 branches all over Lebanon. Al Majmoua (which is the Arabic term of "the group") was initially created in 1994 as a microfinance program by Save the Children to provide group loans to low-income women entrepreneurs. In 1997, it spun off into a fully autonomous NGO.
